Pankaj Mazumder is the co-founder of health-tech startup Oxyfind.

The health tech startup he co-founded with fellow entrepreneurs Nabajyoti Das and Bapan Biswas is a successful venture that is changing lives in no small way. Called Oxyfind, it aims to improve the experiences of patients using artificial intelligence (AI). With grants from the Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology (MeitY) and IIM Calcutta Innovation Park (IIMCIP), Oxyfind is set to take over the health-tech sector and provide patients with the much-needed convenience which conventional hospitals lack.

The startup they began as a way to solve the problems that exist in the health sector. The sole purpose is to make sure that patients can track their consultation slot with a doctor in real-time from their phone which will make the patient's experience smooth as they optimise the existing resources of clinics and hospitals.

This young entrepreneur is inspired to change the world, one startup at a time. By proffering solutions that will make lives easier, Pankaj is relentless in his service to humanity.
